

Proofreading: Training Guide

Training Goals: The audience will understand that:

- Proofreading is the essential last check to find and remove typing errors before printing.
- It is very important to read the translation out loud to check for errors.
- Proofreaders need a checklist for their own language standards. This will guide them to read a translation printout several times, looking for a different kind of error each time.
- Translation leaders can contact their Wycliffe Associates contact person to access, translate, and customize a Proofreading Checklist for their language.

Estimated Time: 30-45 minutes

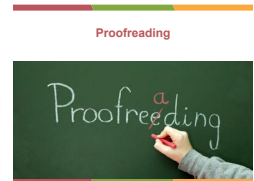

Materials:

- ✓ Slides: Proofreading - Slides (Optional)
- ✓ Proofreading Exercise (1 copy for each person)
- ✓ White board and markers (Optional)

Note to Trainers in Gateway Languages (GLs): The Exercise CANNOT be translated directly. Prepare the Exercise according to its preparation instructions below. If the GL uses different rules than English does, edit the checklist to match the rules for the GL. Also, change the examples used in the checklist demonstration. Use rules and examples that are appropriate for the language being used.

Introduction: This session is about proofreading. As you know, checking is done during the 4 checking steps of the translation process, but the translation still needs further review and quality checks.

If the group is planning to print through Wycliffe Associates, understand that proofreading is an essential step for them.

Ask: What are some other checking and review processes we have already talked about?

Quality Assessment Guide,* Reviewers' Guide,
Spiritual Terms Evaluation*

These quality reviews are done to make sure that the text clearly and consistently communicates the message of Scripture.

Proofreading is done to make sure that things like punctuation and formatting are correct throughout the text, and to find any last errors that are still present.

- Most errors found during proofreading are not present because of incorrect translation. The main translation will already be checked many times before proofreading! Instead, the errors found by proofreaders are usually small typing (or typographical) errors.
- It is far easier to see these last errors and to correct them when looking at a printout of the translation, instead of looking only at a computer screen.
- Small typographical errors can affect the message indirectly. Consider these examples:

• Proofreading finds mostly typing errors.
• These errors may affect meaning.

Use examples to demonstrate that even the smallest typed symbols can have a major impact on meaning. Use the following examples in English, or different examples in the Gateway or Target Language.

For each example, show the slide or write the sentence on the board.

Example 1: Call me Pat.

Read the sentence aloud.

Ask: What does this sentence mean?

Explain: This means I want to be called by the name "Pat."

Call me Pat.
Call me, Pat.
I'm sorry I love you.
I'm sorry. I love you.

Proofreading

Example 2: Add a comma after “me”: Call me, Pat.

- 🗣️ Ask: Does anyone know how the comma changes the meaning in English?
- 🗣️ Explain: Now it means that I am asking a person named Pat to call me.

Example 3: I’m sorry I love you.

- 🗣️ Read the sentence aloud without a pause.
- 🗣️ Ask: What does this mean?
- 🗣️ Explain: To a native English speaker, this sounds like I regret loving another person.

Example 4: Add a period after “sorry”: I’m sorry. I love you.

- 🗣️ Ask: Does anyone know how the period changes the English meaning?
- 🗣️ Explain: Now this sounds like I am apologizing to a person I love.

These are just two examples in English where punctuation affects meaning. Just as voice inflection and facial expression can change the meaning of what is said aloud, in many languages small differences like this can change the meaning of what is written.

- 🗣️ Ask: Are there any examples in your language where punctuation, an accent mark, one different letter, or another small change in writing or printing could change the meaning of the words?

Correct punctuation, capitalization, accent marks, spelling, and formatting are all important to clearly communicate what the Scripture says. Because these kinds of errors often happen during typing, and because they look especially obvious in print, corrections need to be done in this last stage before Bibles are printed and distributed. When a language community creates a finished translation that avoids these types of errors, others see that it has been done well and carefully.

From Galatians 5:
22But the fruit OF the spirit is love joy) peace, patience, Kindness, goodness, Faith, gentleness, and self-control against such things there is no law . 24 those who belong to christ Jesus have cRucified the flesh with its passionsa nd desires²⁵ If we live by the Spirit, let us also walk” by thespirit?

Show slide or another example of text with typing and formatting errors, followed by the correct text.

- 🗣️ Ask: What do you notice about these two examples?

- Would one of these examples be easier to read?
- If you received a printed Bible with the first example of text, would you have a different opinion of its quality than if you received it with the second example? Why or why not?

Give people time to point out errors.

Explain: Proofreading is an opportunity to find and correct typing errors in the text, as well as verse numbers in the Scripture. Each language has its own set of rules for punctuation and capitalization. Some languages may not have a fully developed set of rules yet. The translators will need to decide what rules and format they will follow. The proofreader will make sure that the translation consistently follows the system they agreed on.

Proofreading

- Pairs, such as quotation marks, parentheses, or brackets:

Each one has a partner. (Exception: in some languages, long quotations with multiple paragraphs have opening quotes at the beginning of each paragraph, but only one set of final quotes at the end.)

- Capitalization: Check that names of people and places begin with a capital letter.

Choosing Proofreaders: The translation team will choose one or more proofreaders to proofread the entire New Testament. Proofreading requires a different kind of “looking” than other types of review. This process will get faster once proofreaders gain experience.

Find one or more individuals within the translation team who care about details in printed material and notice them. Choose proofreaders who notice such things easily and who enjoy this kind of work.

Remember that each proofreader will need a Proofreading Checklist.

The Proofreading Process:

- Proofreaders should look at one chapter at a time.
- They should use the Proofreading Checklist to focus on one category or checking method at a time. Proofreading will not be as effective if proofreaders try to find many things at the same time.
- Proofreaders will most easily find these last little errors if they look at the text in print and make sure to read it out loud. This is very important. Proofreaders can read the translation out loud to themselves or to partners. (Partners may also listen and watch for errors as they read.)
- When proofreaders find anything that should be fixed in the chapter, they should mark it or write it down. Proofreaders should talk with their typists beforehand to agree on markings or notes that the typist will easily understand.
- When a category has been checked throughout the chapter, proofreaders should mark the corresponding Checklist box to show that this category is completed.
- If proofreaders notice something other than what is on the Checklist, they should write a note for the whole translation team. The team will make decisions on such changes.

Ask: What would happen if you skipped or tried to combine any of the items on the checklist?

Making Corrections: A typist will need to make the corrections that the proofreaders found. Once proofreaders have completed their review of a whole book, the team typist must enter the necessary changes in BTT Writer. Then the corrections can be saved, and the text can be uploaded to WACS.

Exercise: Proofread a Chapter Using a Prepared Checklist

Preparation Important: This Exercise must be prepared ahead of time if training is not in English. Do not simply translate the exercise from English. It will not work. Instead, type or paste Mark 16 from the source language ULB into a document. Then insert deliberate, simple errors for trainees to find, such as errors in punctuation, spacing, spelling, or formatting. If needed, edit or add to the proofreading categories in the checklist to match the rules of the language.

From John 6:1

Quotation Marks

17 Then Jesus said to the twelve, "You do not want to go away also, do you?" 18 Simon Peter answered him, "Lord, to whom would we go? You have words of eternal life." 19 and we have believed and come to know that you are the Holy One of God.

20 All que Jesús preguntó a los doce: "¿También ustedes quieren marcharse?" 21 "Señor, ¿a dónde iremos? Tú tienes palabras de vida eterna." 22 "Nosotros tenemos fe, y sabemos que tú eres el Santo de Dios."

From John 6:1

Parentheses

1 After these things, Jesus went away to the other side of the Sea of Galilee, also called the Sea of Tiberias. 2 A great crowd was following him because they saw the signs that he was doing on those who were sick. 3 Jesus went up the mountain and there he sat down with his disciples. 4 Now the Passover, the Jewish festival, was near. 5 When Jesus looked up and saw a great crowd coming to him, he said to Philip, "Where are we going to buy bread so that these may eat?" 6 But Jesus said this to test Philip, for he himself knew what he was going to do.

1 Después de estas cosas, Jesús se fue a la otra parte del mar de Galilea, también llamado el mar de Tiberias. 2 Una gran multitud estaba siguiendo a él porque ellos habían visto las señales que él estaba haciendo en los enfermos. 3 Jesús subió al monte y allí se sentó con sus discípulos. 4 Ahora estaba cerca el pasaje, el festival judío. 5 Cuando Jesús miró hacia arriba y vio una gran multitud que estaba viniendo a él, él dijo a Felipe: "¿Dónde vamos a comprar pan para que estos coman?" 6 Pero Jesús dijo esto para probar a Felipe, porque él mismo sabía lo que él estaba haciendo.

Proofreading

Purposes: This Exercise has two purposes. The first purpose is to reinforce the value of proofreading by letting everyone experience it. There can be many small errors in a text that looks good at first glance. Experiencing this will help the team understand how important proofreading is. Not everyone will be able to find many errors, and that is fine. Encourage everyone and affirm what they do find. The second purpose of this Exercise is to find people with proofreading ability. When a translation team works on the Exercise, leaders should notice those who enjoy the Exercise and who find many errors. Translation team leaders may want to choose these individuals to be proofreaders for their translation. The individuals who go on to proofread their translation will then have this experience to guide them.

Process: Trainees should follow the checklist given in the Exercise to search for errors in the Scripture passage provided. They should mark errors they find in the Exercise. Trainees should NOT use the ULB or any other text as a comparison. They should find errors using only the categories in the Exercise. Explain that they may be tempted to skip some steps, but they should NOT skip any steps. Point out step 4, where trainees are instructed to read the text out loud.

Note to those who are training in English: Reassure everyone that, if they are not native English speakers, some of these errors may be difficult to notice. Help them understand that anything they find is excellent, but the Exercise does not allow enough time for people to find every error. Ask everyone to think as they work about what kinds of errors they commonly see when their own language is written or printed. Remind them that when proofreaders are checking their translation, they will have a checklist that fits their own language.

Allow about fifteen minutes for the Exercise. Once the time is done for the exercise, have the participants share a few examples of the errors they found. Some trainers find it beneficial to go around the room and allow each person to share only one error they found. Pointing out a unique error for each person can help to relieve pressure and to affirm everyone's accomplishment.

An Answer Key for the trainer in English is included at the end of this walkthrough, and a list of explanations to help the trainer review. Trainees do not need to find all of the errors. The answers and explanations are for the trainer's information only, if needed for the discussion.

Ask:

- How hard was this exercise? What did you struggle with?
- Did you find a lot of errors or just a few?
- Did it make a difference when you read it out loud?
- If the errors you found got fixed, would it make it easier for readers to understand the text?

Let participants talk about what they found. Do not point out all of the errors. Use the discussion time to help them understand the importance of doing each step separately and carefully.

Confirm: The audience understands that:

- ☐ Proofreading is the essential last check to find and remove typing errors before printing.
- ☐ It is very important to read the translation out loud to check for errors.
- ☐ Proofreaders need a checklist for their own language standards. This will guide them to read a translation printout several times, looking for a different kind of error each time.
- ☐ Translation leaders can contact their Wycliffe Associates contact person to access, translate, and customize a Proofreading Checklist for their language.

Proofreading Exercise

Use the instructions below to find errors in the Scripture passage on the next page. Remember to:

- Read text out loud at least once.
- Mark errors as you find them. You may circle them or write a suggested correction.
- Where instructed, look for only one type of error at a time.
- When you complete each task, mark its box.

When you have finished, the group will review the exercise.

Important: If English is not your heart language, some English errors may be difficult to notice. As you work on this exercise, think about the kinds of errors you commonly see when your own language is written or printed.

- ☐ There should be 20 verses in this chapter. Count through to make sure all the verse markers are present. On the side of the page, write any numbers that are missing.
- ☐ Make sure the number for the chapter is at the beginning.
- ☐ Scan through the chapter text quickly to check for anything that looks odd (examples: uneven spaces between words, inconsistent sizes of numbers, words spelled incorrectly).
- ☐ Read through the text out loud, watching for errors as you read.
- ☐ Look specifically at the endings of sentences. Make sure each sentence has end punctuation (a period, a question mark, or an exclamation point, as appropriate).
- ☐ Look specifically at the beginnings of sentences to confirm that each one starts with a capital letter.
- ☐ Look specifically for pairs of marks, such as quotation marks, parentheses, and brackets. Does each one have a partner? Does what is inside pairs of quotes sound like it is what someone is saying?
- ☐ Make sure each name is capitalized. In English, this should be done for both people and places. This also includes all names for God (Lord, Father, Son, Jesus, Holy Spirit).
